Footbridge Towards the Other: An Introduction to the Philosophy and Poetry of John Paul II John McNerney

By becoming Pope, the philosopher Wojtyla precipitated the hitherto obscure school of phenomenological personalism on to the central stage of Catholic thought. This philosophical approach does not contradict the more traditional Thomistic tradition, but it is new and modern in several important respects. However, it is unfamiliar to Anglo-Saxon philosophers who have not specialized in Continental thought. The question that the author finds at the heart of the Pope's thinking is not the abstract question of how to define the human person, but the Gospel and existential question, "Who is my neighbour?". By answering this, Wojtyla provides a footbridge into the very heart of Christian experience and the meaning of love.
