Patagonia: Notes from the Field

Patagonia: Notes from the Field

The people who use Patagonia gear have explored the furthest extremities of wildness from the icy waters of the Labrador Sea to the baking hot, vertical granite of El Capitan. Patagonia: Notes from the Field delivers an intense glimpse of those front lines in a spectacular collection of essays and photographs commissioned for Patagonia. Authors such as Paul Theroux, Gretel Ehrlich, Russell Chatham, Rick Ridgeway, and Tom McGuane offer first-hand perspectives often off-beat and sometimes unsettling on our relationship to the natural world. Their words capture life-threatening moments and sudden insights into the soul of a sport. The accompanying images may command silence (the tiny silhouettes of climbers on a distant snowy ridge) or elicit a whoop of joy (a kayaker dropping off a 20-foot waterfall). Editor Nora Gallagher has collected the best essays and images from Patagonia's award-winning catalog and melded them with newly commissioned material to create an intelligent, powerful, and vital portrait of "life out there." Patagonia: Notes from the Field will appeal to adventurers, travelers, and dreamers everywhere.

Raymond Augustus:

As a scholar exactly feel bored to reading. If their teacher expected them to go to the library as well as to make summary for some guide, they are complained. Just small students that has reading's soul or real their passion. They just do what the educator want, like asked to the library. They go to at this time there but nothing reading critically. Any students feel that studying is not important, boring along with can't see colorful images on there. Yeah, it is to get complicated. Book is very important for yourself. As we know that on this era, many ways to get whatever you want. Likewise word says, many ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore , this Patagonia: Notes from the Field can make you experience more interested to read.
